) use the Software and GitLab for Education Program materials except for the Acceptable Purpose; (b) modify or create any derivative works of the Software and GitLab for Education Program materials; (c) take any action that would subject the Software and GitLab for Education Program materials to any third party terms; (d) copy, distribute, sell, sublicense, rent or lease the Software and GitLab for Education Program materials, including any access key provided by GitLab, or use such items for hosting, service provider or similar purposes; (e) access the Software and GitLab for Education Program materials for competitive analysis or disseminate performance information (including uptime, response time and/or benchmarks) relating to the Software; or (f) violate the terms of this Agreement or the GitLab for Education Program.

3.4 Portions of the Software are governed by underlying open source licenses as described at https://docs.gitlab.com/ee/development/licensing.html, including but not limited to the Community Edition Software. This Agreement establishes the rights and obligations associated with the Software pursuant to the GitLab for Education Program and is not intended to limit Member's right to software code under the terms of an open source license.

4. OWNERSHIP RIGHTS & TRADEMARKS

4.1 Except as expressly set forth herein, GitLab (and its licensors, where applicable) will retain all Intellectual Property Rights relating to the GitLab for Education Program, Software and any suggestions, ideas, enhancement requests, feedback, or other recommendations provided by Member, its Affiliates, students, users or any third party relating to the GitLab for Education Program and Software (herein referred to as "Feedback Materials"), which are hereby assigned to GitLab. 4.2 Member shall not remove, alter or obscure any of GitLab's (or its licensors') copyright notices, proprietary legends, trademark or service mark attributions, patent markings or other indicia of GitLab's (or its licensors') ownership or contribution from the Software.

5.1 The initial term of this Agreement shall commence on the Effective Date and shall expire one (1) year later (the "Initial Term"). Subject to Section 3.1., this Agreement may renew for successive one (1) year periods upon GitLab confirming reacceptance of Member into the GitLab for Education Program (each a "Renewal Term"), unless terminated as described below . The Initial Term and any Renewal Terms shall be the "Term."

5.2 Following the Initial Term, either Party may terminate this Agreement upon sixty (60) days' prior written notice to the other Party. Either Party may immediately terminate this Agreement upon written notice if the other Party breaches its obligations under this Agreement and fails to cure such breach within thirty (30) days following receipt of notice from the non-breaching Party. A Party that provides notice of breach must include in the notice a description of the alleged breach in reasonable detail. In addition, either Party may immediately terminate this Agreement upon written notice to the other Party in the event that the other Party becomes the subject of a petition in bankruptcy or any proceeding related to its insolvency or any assignment for the benefit of creditors.

5.3 GitLab may also suspend Member's use of the Software and GitLab for Education Program materials or terminate this Agreement immediately if GitLab is: (a) required to do so by law; (b) if Member is no longer deemed an Education Institution; or (c) if GitLab determines that continuing under this Agreement could result in legal or business liability or cause harm to its products, services, reputation or users.

5.4 Upon any termination of this Agreement, Member's rights to use the Software and GitLab for Education Program materials (including related access keys and credentials) will immediately terminate and Member will cease all such use, but all other provisions of this Agreement will survive. GitLab will have no obligation or liability resulting from termination or suspension of this Agreement, as permitted herein.

6.2 Confidential Information shall not include any information that: (a) is or becomes generally available to the public through no fault of or breach of this Agreement by the receiving Party; (b) was rightfully in the receiving Party's possession at the time of disclosure without an obligation of confidentiality on the receiving Party; (c) is independently developed by the receiving Party without use of the disclosing Party's Confidential Information; (d) is rightfully obtained by the receiving Party from a third party not under a duty of confidentiality to the disclosing Party and without restriction on use or disclosure; or (e) the receiving Party is permitted to publicly disclose under another provision of this Agreement.

6.3 Neither Party shall disclose Confidential Information of the other Party to anyone or shall use Confidential Information of the other Party for any purpose, except in either case as necessary to exercise its rights or obligations under this Agreement ("Permitted Purposes"). Each Party shall use at least the same degree of care (but no less than reasonable care) to prevent the unauthorized use, dissemination and copying of the other party's Confidential Information as it uses to protect its own Confidential Information of a like nature. Each Party shall limit the disclosure of such Confidential Information to those of its employees, consultants, Affiliates, advisors and contractors with a bona fide need to access such Confidential Information solely for the Permitted Purposes, and all such employees and contractors must be subject to binding disclosure and use restrictions at least as protective as those set forth herein. 6.5 This Agreement shall not be construed to prevent the receiving Party from disclosing the disclosing Party's Confidential Information to a court or governmental body pursuant to a valid court order, law, subpoena or regulation, provided that the receiving Party: (a) gives reasonable notice (or such shorter period as is the maximum notice permitted under applicable law) before making the disclosure, unless prohibited by law; (b) provides reasonable assistance to the disclosing Party, at disclosing Party's expense, in any lawful efforts by the disclosing Party to resist or limit the disclosure of such Confidential Information; and (c) discloses only that portion of the disclosing Party's Confidential Information which is legally required to be disclosed.

6.6 The Parties agree that the receiving Party's disclosure of Confidential Information, except as provided herein, may result in irreparable injury for which a remedy in money damages would be inadequate. The Parties further agree that in the event of such disclosure or threatened disclosure: (a) the disclosing Party shall be entitled to seek an injunction to prevent the breach or threatened breach in addition to any other remedies available to the disclosing Party at law or in equity; and (b) each Party hereby acknowledges that such an injunction is appropriate and warranted in such case. All Confidential Information disclosed under this Agreement will remain the property of the disclosing Party. No license or right under any intellectual property right is granted under this Agreement or by any disclosure of Confidential Information except as expressly stated in this Agreement.

7. WARRANTY & INDEMNIFICATION

GitLab may at its own expense participate in the defense and settlement of any claim with its own counsel, and the Member may not settle a claim without GitLab's prior written consent (not to be unreasonably withheld).

What does this partnership entail?

- We collaborate strategically with Sales, Go-to-Market, Finance and People teams to develop scalable, compliant employment solutions as GitLab expands globally and responsibly, implementing a comprehensive process for gathering, assessing, and acting on country-specific information.

- We empower the Talent Acquisition department to achieve its critical goals while ensuring compliance with local laws and regulations during sourcing, recruitment, and hiring processes.

- We enable the People Connect team to effectively onboard and support team members with location- and role-specific legal support, setting team members up for success from day one.

- We partner with the Total Rewards team, People Operations team and People Business Partners to develop forward-thinking policies that balance GitLab's business objectives, team members' needs, and global legal requirements.

- We provide strategic counsel to our Team Member Relations team, People Business Partners, and Total Rewards as they navigate complex team member matters, including reasonable accommodation requests, performance management, career progression, and other relationship dynamics.

- We champion our Diversity, Inclusion, and Belonging initiatives by aligning all employment decisions with our mission statement and applicable laws.

- We safeguard GitLab's interests while also providing fair treatment during employment transitions, including offboarding processes and post-employment matters.

How to work with the Legal Employment team

Connect - Collaborate - Consult (and Consider any additional guidelines)

{style="max-width: 50%;"}

To work with the Legal Employment team, reach out early in your process, provide complete information about your needs and any time constraints you have. Being specific about what you're requesting and any deadlines you face will enable the Legal Employment team to best triage requests and support you.

Connect

To connect with Legal Employment, especially on sensitive matters, you can use the 'legal-employment@gitlab.com' email address, or for non-sensitive queries, you can reach out in the legal slack channel. Note that GitLab team members with individual employment queries should reach out to Team Member Relations team on 'teammemberrelations@gitlab.com' or to their aligned People Business Partner for support.

Collaborate

For cross-functional projects that do not involve individual team members but do require the Legal Employment team·s attention, please (i) open an Issue in the Legal and Compliance Project; (ii) select the appropriate Issue Template; (iii) apply the label legal-employment :: to-do and (iv) if you know which Legal team member you will be working with, include them as an Assignee. This will update the Legal Employment Issue Board for the Employment team·s benefit, and allow the team to pick up and/or assign appropriately.

- legal-employment:in progress means the Legal Employment team is actively working on the issue.
- legal-employment:pending requester means the Legal Employment team has a requirement or task that must be met by the requester before the issue progresses.
- legal-employment:done means the Legal Employment team has finished their portion of the issue.

Consult

A table showing coverage for queries by subject matter is available for internal use and can be accessed here. You are welcome to consult any member of the Legal Employment team.

Consider these additional guidelines

It is worth considering the privilege guidelines when communicating with GitLab's Legal and Corporate Affairs team (aka the LACA team), including the Legal Employment team. Note that, if a communication is privileged, it can be protected from disclosure in litigation or other disputes. If in doubt, there·s an internal, GitLab University micro course on ·Privileged communication·, which is relevant to any team member who communicates with the LACA team, seeking legal advice on behalf of GitLab. The training explains the legal protection which may be applied to certain communications between team members and LACA and how best to communicate in order to be protected.

It is also important to note that, if you receive any formal documents that appear to be legal notices, demands, subpoenas, court papers, or other potential litigation materials, you should please forward these by email to the legal team immediately (to the 'legal@gitlab.com' email address) without responding yourself. Please add a brief note explaining when and how you received the document. These materials often have strict response deadlines, and your prompt sharing allows the legal team to review and address them properly to protect both you and GitLab.

When developing materials for external use, follow the SAFE Framework and the Guidelines for Use of Third-party IP in External Materials (the "IP Guidelines"). If you have any questions, reach out to the Legal & Corporate Affairs Team via the safe Slack channel.

GITLAB INC. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS POLICY
{.h1}

THIS POLICY WAS AMENDED AND RESTATED BY THE BOARD ON SEPTEMBER 14, 2021

PURPOSE

At GitLab Inc. (the "Company"), we aim to lead by example. We set high standards for our team members at all levels and strive to meet them consistently. Our sound business principles and practices foster our commitment to ethical behavior, accountability and transparency. We expect our directors, officers and team members to avoid conflicts of interest, that is, any activity that interferes with the performance of their duties or that might deprive us of their undivided loyalty in business dealings. Conflicts of interest can come up in various ways, even in situations where the transaction may benefit the Company and our stockholders. This Related Party Transactions Policy (the "Policy") deals specifically with those situations where the Company (including any of our subsidiaries) is a party to a transaction with a Related Party. Although our Code of Business Conduct and Ethics addresses this issue generally, we have adopted this Policy to formalize our procedures for the identification, review, and consideration and approval of the Audit Committee of our Board of Directors (the "Audit Committee") of any transactions involving the Company and a Related Party. This Policy has been approved by our Board of Directors ("Board").

PERSONS COVERED BY THIS POLICY

This Policy applies to all of our executive officers, any person the Company knows to be the beneficial owner of more than 5% of any class of our voting securities (a "significant stockholder"), and members of our Board.

APPROVAL AUTHORITY

Our "Approval Authority" will be our Audit Committee. In a situation where a member of our Audit Committee is a Related Party in the proposed transaction, our Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee will be the Approval Authority.

WHO IS A RELATED PARTY?

You are a Related Party if you are:

1. a person who is, or at any time since the begining of our last fiscal year was, a director or executive officer of the Company or a nominee to become a director;
1. a significant stockholder, or an immediate family member of a director, director nominee, executive officer or significant stockholder. This includes any child stepchild, parent, stepparent, spouse, sibling, in-law (mother, father, son, daughter, brother, sister) of such person, and any person (other than a tenant or employee) sharing the household of such person.

WHAT TYPES OF TRANSACTIONS ARE COVERED BY THIS POLICY?

Any transaction, arrangement or relationship (including any indebtedness or guarantee of indebtedness) or any series of similar transactions, arrangements or relationships, in which:

1. the Company (including any of our subsidiaries) was, is or will be a participant;
1. the aggregate amount involved will or may be expected to exceed $120,000 in any fiscal year; and
1. any Related Party had, has or will have a direct or indirect material interest.

Any transaction that meets the above criteria is referred to as a "Related Party Transaction."

IDENTIFYING RELATED PARTIES

We have established a process to identify any Related Party to assist us in enforcing this Policy.

Directors and Executive Officers
Our Legal Team will collect, at least annually, the following information from each of our directors and executive officers:

1. A list of all entities in which they serve as a director or executive officer, or in which they have 5% or greater beneficial ownership interest.
1. A list of all their immediate family members, and for each immediate family member listed:
    - whether they are (a) an executive officer of any entity, or (b) employed by the Company's independent auditor (or an affiliate, member firm or other entity associated with our independent auditor), and if so, the name of their employer and job title or a brief job description; and
    - all entities in which they serve as a director or in which they are a significant stockholder.

This list also will include the name of each charitable or non-profit organization for which each director, executive officer and any immediate family member is a major fundraiser or otherwise serves as a director or trustee or in a similar capacity.

Directors and executive officers are expected to notify our Legal Team of any updates to the list of Related Parties, including updates to their employment and relationships with charitable organizations.

Significant Stockholders

When the Company learns that a person has become a significant stockholder, our Legal Team will examine relevant filings with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") (to the extent such information is available) to determine (a) if the person is an individual, the same information requested of directors and executive officers under this Policy, and (b) if the person is a firm, corporation or other entity, a list of principals or executive officers of such firm, corporation or entity.

APPROVAL PROCESS

Advance Approval

Any transaction the Company intends to undertake with a Related Party, irrespective of the amounts involved (unless the transaction is subject to standing pre-approval as provided in this policy or pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Approval Authority), must be submitted to the Chief Legal Officer (the "CLO") for their determination of the approvals required under this Policy. The CLO will refer to the Approval Authority any Related Party Transaction, and any other transaction that the CLO otherwise determines should be considered for evaluation by the Approval Authority consistent with the purpose of this Policy. The CLO may do so irrespective of any pre-approval or other technical exemption from this Policy.

The Legal Team will provide the Approval Authority with all relevant information available about the proposed transaction, including:

1. the Related Party's relationship to the Company and interest in the transaction;
1. the material facts of the proposed transaction, including the anticipated aggregate dollar value of the transaction or, in the case of indebtedness, the largest amount of principal outstanding at any time during the current fiscal year plus all amounts of interest payable on it during the fiscal year;
1. the rationale for the proposed transaction; and
1. any other relevant information with respect to the proposed transaction.

In deciding whether to approve a proposed transaction, the Approval Authority may take into account any relevant information and considerations, including the impact on a director's independence if the Related Party is a director. The Approval Authority may impose such conditions as it deems appropriate on the Company or on the Related Party in connection with approving the proposed transaction.

The Approval Authority will convey the decision, including any conditions imposed on the transaction, to our CLO, who then will convey the decision to the appropriate people within the Company.

Review of Ongoing Transactions

At least annually, the Approval Authority will review any previously approved or ratified transactions with Related Parties that remain ongoing and that have a remaining term of more than six months and remaining amounts payable to or receivable from us of more than $120,000 during the fiscal year. Based on all relevant facts and circumstances, the Approval Authority will determine whether it is in the best interests of the Company and its stockholders to continue, modify or terminate the transaction.

Ratification

Members of our finance team will produce quarterly reports of any amounts paid or payable to, or received or receivable from, any Related Party. These reports will be provided (a) to our legal department and used to determine whether there are any Related Party Transactions or other transactions with Related Parties that were not previously approved or previously ratified under this Policy and (b) to our CLO for appropriate reporting in our periodic reports.

If the CLO learns of a transaction with a Related Party that required but did not receive approval or ratification under this Policy, the CLO will promptly submit the transaction to the Approval Authority. The Approval Authority will undertake the review described above. Based on the conclusions reached, the Approval Authority will evaluate all options, including but not limited to ratification, amendment or termination of the transaction with the Related Party, and determine whether disciplinary action is appropriate.

A transaction with a Related Party entered into without pre-approval of the Approval Authority will not be deemed to violate this Policy, or be invalid or unenforceable, provided that the transaction is brought to the Approval Authority as promptly as reasonably practical after it is entered into or after it becomes reasonably apparent that the transaction is covered by this Policy.

Standing Pre-Approval for Certain Related Party Transactions

Unless there are special or unusual benefits to the Related Party in a proposed transaction, the following categories of Related Party Transactions do not need to be presented to the Approval Authority for review and approval under this Policy:

1. Employment of executive officers: Any employment by us of an executive officer if:
    - the compensation arising from such employment is reported in our proxy statement; or
    - the executive officer is not an immediate family member of another Company executive officer or director, the related compensation would have been reported in our proxy statement if the executive officer were a "named executive officer," and the Company's Compensation and Leadership Development Committee approved (or recommended that the Board approve) such compensation;
1. Director compensation: Any compensation paid to a director (in such capacity) if the compensation is required to be reported in our proxy statement;

SECTION: legal/ip-public-materials-guidelines.md

Scope and purpose

These guidelines apply to the use of third-party content in all external materials, including:

- Pitch decks;
- Presentations and talk tracks (including those delivered at conferences and marketing events);
- Marketing collateral, including emails, blog posts, release posts, social media posts on GitLab accounts, and videos; and
- Advertisements.

If you're unsure, reach out to legal to confirm.

These guidelines do not apply to the use of trademarks in the GitLab product itself. Refer to the guidelines of the Use of Third-party Trademarks in GitLab instead.

When used in these guidelines:

"external materials" has the meaning given in the Materials Legal Review Process.

"third-party content" means any content, including trademarks, visual content, and written content, created or owned by a third party.

Note about use of content obtained from the internet

Just because something is available for free on the internet (including on Google Images, Google Maps, YouTube, blogs, social media, and news websites) does not mean it can be freely used. The vast majority of internet content is subject to copyright and/or trademark rights, and GitLab's use of that content could constitute infringement.

Trademarks - logos and wordmarks

"Logo" means a symbol used to identify a company, product, or service, like the GitLab Tanuki logo.

"Wordmark" means unstylized words or letters used to identify a company, product, or service, like GitLab.

Do

- When using the logo or wordmark of a customer, partner, or other third party with which GitLab has a commercial relationship, for customers, refer to the Customer Advocacy at GitLab handbook page. Discuss with customer-advoocacy-and-references if unsure. For use of a partner's logo, discuss with channel-marketing to confirm that rights and approvals are in place for your proposed use under the Partner Agreement. For use of an ISV technology partner's logo, discuss with global-ecosystem-programs-ops.

- Use wordmarks referentially: refer to the wordmark owner, or the owner's products and services associated with the mark, when the company, product or service in question cannot be easily identified without using the mark. For example, it's much easier to refer to GitLab using the wordmark GitLab than to the company behind the DevOps platform delivered as a single application.

Don't

- Use a logo when referring to third-party companies, or their products or services. Trademark fair use applies to logos only in very exceptional circumstances; use the wordmark instead.
- Remove, distort, alter, or otherwise modify a logo.
- Use a logo or wordmark in any way that implies an untrue relationship or affiliation with, or sponsorship or endorsement by, the owner.
- Use a logo or wordmark in any way that denigrates or discredits the owner or their products or services.
- Use a well-known wordmark in a general manner. For example, use photo rather than Polaroid unless refering to an actual Polaroid.

Visual content including videos, GIFs, photographs, illustrations, graphics, and artwork

Do

- Obtain visual content from permissively-licensed sources, like unsplash.com for images, or use content created by GitLab. If you're unsure, reach out to legal to review the license covering the content you want to use.
- If required by the applicable license, provide attribution, ensuring you follow any attribution guidelines which apply.
- For visual content containing identifiable individuals (including GitLab team members), review and follow the Publicity Waiver and Release Guidelines and Process.

- For stock house visual content that includes identifiable individuals, ensure the stock house has obtained a model release covering all individuals who appear.

For Unsplash images, it's good practice to credit Unsplash as the source and photographer. This helps team members repurposing materials determine if images can be used, and is courteous to the photographer.

{{% details summary="Expand for Unsplash attribution instructions" %}}

1. Create a small text box at the bottom right of the relevant slide.
1. Locate the image on unsplash.com.
1. Click on Download free but ignore the downloaded file.
1. Copy the Say thanks · attribution text to the clipboard.
1. Insert the attribution text into the text box, and apply formatting: Font Inter, Size 8, Italic.

Example Unsplash attribution
{{% /details %}}

Don't

- Use visual content if you cannot confirm the source of the content.
- Use visual content depicting children.
- Use images which prominently feature a logo, famous building or structure, or well-known person, even if obtained from Unsplash or a stock house. Such images are likely subject to restrictions by virtue of their subject, irrespective of the license covering the content itself.
- Use GIFs from GIPHY.com, as the content on that site is solely for personal and non-commercial purposes.

AI-generated images

The legal environment surrounding AI-generated creative works, including images, is evolving rapidly. In view of this, this section remains subject to change to take account of changes in the legal environment.

General Requirements

- Follow our General Purpose AI Tool Usage Guidelines.
- Don't use prompts that reference an artist by name. For example, don't use in the style of [artist name]. You can, however, use a prompt like in the impressionist style.
- Use only written prompts -- don't use an existing image as a prompt.
- Use of any text-to-image model besides those listed under Model-Specific Requirements below is not permitted without prior legal review of the model's license and any applicable restrictions.
- Don't use AI image generation to create logos.

Model-Specific Requirements

Stable Diffusion

- Use of the Stable Diffusion text-to-image model to generate images for external use is permitted, subject to the restrictions in this section and the General Requirements section above.
- Images generated by Stable Diffusion are subject to Use Restrictions in Attachment A of the License Agreement. Before using images generated by Stable Diffusion, review these restrictions to ensure your proposed use is compliant.

Written content including books, papers, blog posts, and news articles

Do

- Use excerpts from written content for the purpose of criticism or comment.
- Use as short an excerpt of the original content as possible for your given purpose. Fair use is more likely to be established when a small portion of the original content is copied.
- Provide attribution, ensuring that you follow any attribution guidelines which apply to the content you're using.

Don't

- Use the entirety, or a large portion, of an article, paper or blog post.
- Use excerpts, quotes or headlines of print and online news articles without following Corporate Communications' Sharing Media Coverage guidelines.

Industry Analyst Content Use

- Any use of industry analyst content from firms such as Forrester Research, Gartner, and International Data Corporation (IDC) must be submitted for review and approval to Analyst Relations by filling out this issue template.

If you aren't sure if the author of the content you're quoting is an industry analyst, or if you have any other questions, contact the analyst-relations Slack channel.

Quotes

Do

- If using an unsolicited quote from a company or person not affiliated with GitLab, use the quote verbatim.
- If desired when using an unsolicited quote, hyperlink the quote's source.
- If using a quote that references a GitLab customer or partner by name, confirm with customer-advocacy-and-references (for customers) or channel-marketing (for partners) that sufficient rights and approvals are in place for the proposed use.

Don't

- Reference the company or person by name if using a non-solicited quote.
- Change the sense of the quoted material, whether by quoting out of context, altering the quote itself, or inaccurately paraphrasing.

Audio content including music, sounds, and sound effects

Do

- Obtain audio content from permissively-licensed sources which allow commercial use of the content without payment of royalties or obtaining a separate license, or use content created by GitLab. If you're unsure, reach out to legal to review the license covering the content you want to use.

Don't

- Assume that a re-recording or cover of a popular song can be used. The recording, melody, and lyrics of a song are each distinct works protected by independent copyrights; a midi rendition composed by a GitLab team member on GarageBand of The Eagles' Hotel California would likely infringe the copyright in the melody of the original song.

Promotional Games

Engaging legal for approval

If you are planning a promotional game, you will need legal approval for the proposed promotional game. Please use the Promotional Games Legal Template housed in the Marketing Ops repo.

Submit requests for Official Rules to Legal at least 2 weeks before you need a decision.

Complete all of the questions in each of the following sections of the Legal Template. Refer to the instruction notes in the template. Issues that do not answer all the questions will not be approved and the due date may be impacted. Sections are as follows:

- Type of event you are planning. If it's a type of game not included in the list, please provide a detailed description of how the game will work. The following explanations will help you determine the type of event:
  - Giveaway: Every participant that completes the prescribed action gets the prize or complimentary gift. Official rules may not be required for giveaways, provided the giveaway description includes clear conditions of participation (what you must do) and any restrictions (such as max of 100 prizes/complimentary gifts, first come first serve, while supplies last).
  - Game of Chance/Prize Draw/Sweepstakes: A promotional game where there is an element of chance in the determination of a winner. These may include objective qualifying requirements but the winner(s) are selected at random from a pool of qualified entries.

  - Game of Skill/Contest: A contest or competition - where the winner is selected as the result of the best entry and would include objective standards/criteria upon which the entry is judged.

- Note regarding Raffles: Avoid using the term "raffle", as raffles are a type of lottery whereby the participants pay money to purchase a ticket for the opportunity to be entered into a drawing. Raffles are normally conducted for charitable purposes and differ from a traditional sweepstakes, where participants can enter without making a purchase and must be able to enter for free.

- External or Internal Game: Indicate whether it's external (consumer-facing) or internal (for GitLab team members only).
- General Details: A few notes regarding general details:

  - Question 3, Hosting Country. Because laws vary based on locale, it is necessary for Legal to know as much as possible about where the promotional game will take place. (In the case of remote events, please tell us the intended audience. For example, it may be targeted to EMEA users/prospects. Legal will then review our internal guidelines to determine which country we will designate as the host country.)

  - Question 6, Promotional Game Description. It is important for Legal to know what communication to entrants will look like so we can ensure that it complies with local law. The game description should be clear regarding what steps the consumer needs to take and what they need to do in order to participate.

  - Question 9, Survey Questions. Questions intended for use in a survey or quiz as part of a promotional game must be submitted for review, so that Legal can understand more about the promotional game, what rules may apply, and what language to include in the rules. We may have input for wording.

- Participant Information: See instructions in the template.

- After the Promotional Game: Note the following:

  - Question 2: Use of Personal Data: You must articulate what you will do with personal data you collect through the promotional game so Legal can help you ensure that communication and/or consent is handled properly.

- Prizes: A few notes regarding prizes:

  - Prize Descriptions and Depictions. Please provide as much information as possible regarding the prize(s), for example, the number of prizes, size(s) available, color(s), technical specifications, etc. The rules must clearly describe the prize(s) so that the prize is not subject to interpretation or create confusion. The brand name of a prize can be used in the description. If an image of the actual prize will be used, it shouldn't be so prominent that it looks like the prize manufacturer is sponsoring the promotion.

  - Prize Values. Local law often hinges on the value of the prizes, so it is necessary to know what prizes and how many prizes will be awarded prior to creating rules. Legal may request a change in prizes if the value amount is over a certain threshold and adds significant Legal requirements to the event. This varies from country to country and sometimes from state to state. As a rule, prize values should not exceed US$599.00, to avoid U.S. tax form requirements, and the total value of all prizes in a promotion should not exceed US$4,999.00, to avoid registration and bonding requirements in certain U.S. states.

- Awarding Prizes. The method and criteria for winning a prize must be detailed, as this will affect what the rules will include. For example, in a game of chance/sweepstakes, winners are selected through a random drawing. In a contest/game of skill, winners are selected through criteria on which they are judged.

- Winner List. You must make a winner list available (public URL or via email request), as this is a requirement in nearly every jurisdiction. We take privacy seriously, so we will post first initials and last names where allowed by law.

- Declaration of Eligibility and Release: This declaration, also known as an Affidavit, is a written statement signed by the winner, which is used to confirm the winner's identity and eligibility including the name, age and address, in order to win a prize as per the Official Rules. The Declaration also includes a publicity release which gives the Sponsor the right to use the winner's name and likeness for advertising or publicity purposes in perpetuity, where permitted by law (not allowed in Tennessee, USA).

Once your issue template is completely filled out, Legal will review all the details in light of the applicable laws and make recommendations to tailor the promotional game. Legal will also provide the Official Rules and the Abbreviated Rules. Depending on the locale, you may be required to obtain a translation of the rules to local languages. Legal does not provide this, so you will need to ensure that you have the ability to procure this through Marketing vendors. Some rules can be translated through automated services, but others may require human translation depending on the prize amounts and jurisdiction.

Hosting the Promotional Game Rules

Any promotional game sponsored by GitLab must be accompanied by Official Rules. Once legal has drafted and provided these to you, you will need to create a new page under the GitLab Sweepstakes page and add a link to the list of Current promotional games. Once you have added the rules for your promotional game, link to these from the landing page of your entry form or promotion.

Abbreviated Rules, with a link to the full Official Rules, must be present wherever there's a mention of the promotion or prizes. Abbreviated Rules will be provided by legal.

Note: Remember to move your page from the Current to the Past lists once your promotional game is complete.

Official Rules for internal GitLab team member only sweepstakes, contests and giveaways, should be placed on the Legal - Internal Sweepstakes, Contests and Giveaways page of the internal handbook. Instructions for uploading Official Rules for internal promotions can be found there.

Publicity Waiver and Release

For requests related to the use of an individual's image or voice in print or digital media, for team members and non-team members, refer to the Publicity Waiver and Release Guidelines and Process.

SECTION: legal/materials-legal-review-process.md

Process fundamentals

What follows is a brief overview of key requirements. Review the complete process for full details and instructions.

- Legal review is mandatory for, amongst other things, materials related to new product offerings, SKU changes, statements by E-Group members, financial data, and M&A activities.
- All materials, whether or not review is mandatory, must comply with the SAFE Framework and Third-party IP Guidelines.
- Materials containing MNPI or other internally-confidential information require special handling in restricted-access issues and documents.
- Use the self-serve compliance resources to streamline the review process, and review common examples of legal feedback to improve your materials before submission.

Self-serve materials compliance resources

When creating materials:

- for external use, refer to the SAFE Framework, the Guidelines for Use of Third-party IP in External Materials, and as a quick-reference guide, the External Materials Compliance Tips.
- for internal use, always refer to the SAFE Framework.

The External Materials Compliance Tips page provides examples of common legal review feedback to help creators address compliance issues before submission.

When to use this process

For materials listed under Mandatory Review, a review is always required.

For everything else a review is not required provided the materials comply with:

1. the SAFE Framework; and
1. for external materials, the Guidelines for Use of Third-party IP in External Materials.

The DRI is responsible for ensuring materials are compliant. If you're unsure whether certain materials need to be reviewed, or have a question about compliance with the SAFE Framework, the IP Guidelines, or the Checklist, reach out in the safe Slack channel for SAFE-related questions and in the legal Slack channel for IP-related questions.

Mandatory review

Review is always required for:

- External materials related to the experiment, beta, or general availability announcement or release of significant new product offerings or significant changes to existing product offerings, including:
  - Any product or services launched through the New Product Introduction Process
  - New SKU
    - E.g.: Materials announcing the general availability of a new SKU
    - E.g.: Materials announcing the forthcoming private beta of what will become a new SKU

  - Changes to an existing SKU (e.g., price, removal or addition of a named offering)

    - E.g.: Materials announcing new pricing for an existing SKU

  - Deprecation of an existing SKU

    - E.g.: Materials announcing the phasing out of an existing SKU

  - Repackaging of features or product sets

    - E.g.: Materials announcing features from an existing product are now available at no additional cost at a lower tier.

- Internal and external materials requiring review as determined by the SAFE Framework Flowchart;
- External materials which quote, or are written in the name of, any member of the GitLab Executive Group; VP, Investor Relations; or a member of the GitLab Board of Directors;
- Quarterly and year-end earnings reports, and materials which include financial data that has not been publicly disclosed, or a variation previously disclosed financial data;
- Materials relating to:
  - Mergers and acquisitions, including spin outs, investments, or acqui-hires; or
  - Executive or other material organizational or management changes
- Social media posts that cover or reference subjects that would normally require review (e.g. earnings reports, mergers and acquisitions, etc.) non-public financial data, or a variation of previously disclosed financial data, or those disclosing information related to anything in this list or any other material nonpublic information.

Excluded from review

This process should never be used for:

- NDAs, contracts, or other commercial agreements which should instead be routed through the Commercial Legal Team.
- AMAs streamed or published publicly to GitLab Unfiltered. However, these recordings should not be streamed or published if they contain material non-public information, confidential information, or are required to be kept SAFE;
- External or internal handbook updates;
- GitLab issues or merge requests (remember that MRs are usually public, so drafting and review for sensitive items should be handled outside of MRs until finalized); nor
- Internal or external communications prepared in relation to a contentious issue that undermines a critical attribute of our company's brand and challenges its reputation or impacts, or has the potential to impact the safety or well-being of our team-members which should instead follow the GitLab Incident Communications Plan.

The Legal & Corporate Affairs Team will not review materials sent in Slack because Slack should not be used for obtaining approval; follow this Materials Legal Review Process instead.

MNPI and internally-confidential information

Follow this process for review of materials containing material non-public information (MNPI) or information with restricted internal access.

1. For standalone materials not related to an ongoing initiative:

   a. Create an issue following Track 1 or Track 2 below.

   b. Create a Google Doc shared only with the relevant team members who need to know the MNPI or restricted information, and link it from the issue.

   c. Ensure all comments and discussions take place in the Google Doc and not the issue.

2. For materials related to an ongoing MNPI or internally-confidential initiative:

   a. Create an issue within the internally-confidential GitLab Project for the initiative if one exists. If no such GitLab Project for the initiative exists, follow the process above for standalone materials.

   b. Complete the Track 1 issue comment template in that issue to request review.

External vs Internal use

External use means materials made available to any company or individual who is not a GitLab team member, including media, marketing audiences, prospects, customers, partners, vendors, community members, and conference attendees. Materials published with publi
